Rick,

Thank you for getting back to me. This is unfortunate as we were not informed that the South Park BID and Fashion District BID ads were low resolution. We could have easily contacted the BIDs for higher resolution files. Additionally, we were not informed that you needed the files in a different format.

Regarding the CCA ad, the ad you published is part of the membership trade agreement (attached; please see the Monthly Ads section) and from my understanding is separate from the editorial opportunity we discussed in August. The CCA ad that we sent you to be published featured our November 9th General Membership Meeting as noted in the attached email.

The Q3 DTLA Marketing Report was not available at the time of your deadline, which is why we provided you with the Q2 report content. We also provided you with the housing tour information to supplement the content. We were not aware that your team was not planning to print any of the content we or our BID partners provided. Again, this is truly unfortunate. I'm available to discuss in more detail if you would like.

Regard,

Hi Nhien:

I wanted to get back to you regarding the email you sent. The DCBID/CCA full page ad is on page 114 of the Cosmopolitan issue. The same full page ad is on page 74 of the Art of Motion issue. I checked with Steve and the staff and an editorial decision was made not to include the other items for the following reasons:

-The South Park and Fashion District images and copy were low resolution and were not of printing quality. I was told a request was made by the LA DREAMS staff to resend the files at high resolution and fonts in a vector format. Staff never received a response.

-The DTLA Market Report was from the 2nd quarter and out in the public domain for a period of time as was deemed "old news". The staff was anticipating the preliminary 3rd quarter DTLA Market Report.

Please let me know if you have any questions.

Thank you,

Rick

Rick, I don't see the ads that we sent to you back in October in either issue. It would have included the following:

- CCA ad
- DCBID ad
- South Park ad
- Fashion District ad
- Housing tour ad & Market report

It was part of the multi-page ad opportunity that Steve, Ty and you discussed with our team in August. Can you please let me know.

Thank you,
Nhien

Hi Nhien:

I dropped copies of two issues at your office. The Art In Motion and Cosmopolitan issues.

Thank you,

Rick

Hi team, I wanted to check in on the issue featuring CCA's and the BIDs's ads. Can you let me know when the issue comes out, and can you send me a few copies for our files?

Thank you,
Nhien

That's what I was afraid of! Tried to send it over last night but I guess it was too big. Didn't get a bounce back though, which is odd...

In any case, here's a link to the file, stored on our Dropbox. Please let me know if you can access.
